

Service Fees As of 13/04/2026

We aim to make our service accessible to our community and try to ensure that cost is not a barrier. Our FSA Psychology stream does not receive any external or sustainable funding to ensure our ongoing operation, yet we continue to see an overwhelming demand for our services that we need to resource. As such, our fees are necessary to continue to operate and are increasing to reflect the cost of continued resourcing of this service stream. Should you need to access support, but are in significant financial distress, please let us know and we can discuss this with you. Please note that all session fees below refer to a 50-minute session unless otherwise specified.

All fees for psychology sessions are set well below the Australian Psychological Society's (APS) recommended fee schedule of $311.00 per session.

The cost of providing Medicare services is further subsidised by Family Services Australia to make service more accessible to our clients.

All rates for NDIS funded services are based on current NDIS Price Guides. NDIS support typically requires a greater amount of preparation, case conferencing, and case management for our clinical staff making it necessary for us to charge in line with NDIS recommendations.
